REPORT OF THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

During the year 184 volumes and 25 unbound numbers of periodicals have been borrowed by 21 different Fellows and 16 different libraries, and many more have been consulted at the Academy. All books taken out have been returned or satisfactorily accounted for.

The number of bound volumes on the shelves at the time of the last report was 42,578. During the year 451 volumes were added, making the number now 43,029. This includes 46 purchased from the General Fund, 24 from the Rumford Fund, and 381 received by gift or exchange. The number of pamphlets added was 85.

No changes have been made in the periodical subscription list this year, but several institutions have been added to the exchange list. We now subscribe to 43 scientific journals and exchange publications with 450 institutions. By exchange, subscription, or gift, we receive regularly 827 separate serial publications. It may be well in this connection to remind the Fellows that it has been the policy for a number of years to use all available funds for keeping up the collection of serials, of which the Academy has many long and valuable sets, making no attempt to add to the book collection.

The following appropriations were placed at the disposal of the Librarian during the past year:

Balance from General Fund	$ 246.15
Appropriation from General Fund	3,400.00
Appropriation from Rumford Fund	350.00
Total	$3,996.15

The expenses charged to the library during the financial year ending March 31, 1932, were:

Salaries	$2,000.00
Binding:
General Fund	$ 713.49
Rumford Fund	90.06
	$ 803.55

Purchase of Books and Periodicals:

General Fund	$ 453.61
Rumford Fund	124.33
	$ 577.94
Miscellaneous	88.96
Total	$3,470.45

There remained an unexpended balance of $525.70, as follows:

General Fund	$ 390.09
Rumford Fund	135.61
Total	$ 525.70

This unusually large balance is due to the fact that the 1932 bill for German periodicals was received too late to be paid before the close of the fiscal year. As usual, however, all balances will be added to the appropriations for the ensuing year.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED C. LANE, Librarian.

May 11, 1932.

REPORT OF THE C. M. WARREN COMMITTEE.

The Committee had at its disposal at the beginning of the fiscal year 1931-1932, $1,523.11, of which $550 has been appropriated during the past year.

Since the last annual report grants have been made as follows:

June 10, 1931: to Professor E. H. Huntress, M. I. T., $250, to be used for the purchase of materials necessary in the preparation of substances to be investigated in connection with the development of a scheme for the qualitative analysis of organic compounds.

June 10, 1931: to Professor Henry Gilman, Iowa State College, $300, to be used in the purchase of expensive chemicals needed in his study of the Grignard reaction.

The Committee considered with care four applications for assistance but found it inadvisable to make grants in these cases.

At the next meeting of the Committee applications for seven grants, amounting to $2,410, will be considered.

Reports of progress, during the current year, have been made by Professors Allen, Huntress, Richtmyer, Schmidt.

The papers listed below, which have been published since the last report of the Committee, describe the results of investigations aided by the Warren Fund. In each case there is an acknowledgment by the author of the assistance received.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF PUBLICATION.

The Committee of Publication has held one meeting during the year, the rest of its business being carried on as usual by correspondence. At the meeting of March 9, 1932, the Committee authorized the publication of a new Memoir by Professor M. L. Fernald, and left on the table for further discussion the question of publication of a statistical report submitted by Professor E. B. Wilson. On account of what seemed extremely high cost of printing, the Editor was given discretionary power to change the printer of Academy publications. The Intelligencer Press has, however, agreed to a discount of ten percent on all its bills, and as yet no change of printer has been made.

Since the last report of the Committee, Volume 65 of the Proceedings has been published, Volume 66—including the records number—has been completed, and four numbers of Volume 67 have been issued. In addition to this, the fifth of the Thaxter Memoirs has appeared. Several manuscripts submitted for publication by non-members of the Academy have been declined.

According to the Treasurer, the Committee has spent during the fiscal year—April 1, 1931 to April 1, 1932—the sum of $12,733.87. On May 1, 1932, the balance available for publications during the current year is $14,200.08. This includes an unexpended balance of $1,004.87 appropriated by the Rumford Committee for publications in the field of heat and light. The cost of the Sapir volume was $6,168.27, towards which the American Council of Learned Societies contributed $3,000.00. The expense of the Thaxter Memoir was defrayed by Professor Thaxter.

The enlargement of Classes III and IV and the prospect that demand for publication in the fields of the humanities would be increased has led President Ford to appoint a special committee consisting of Professor G. H. Chase, Professor E. F. Gay and the Editor, to consider the interests of Classes III and IV in reference to publication. This committee has held one meeting in conference with President Ford and Dr. Waldo G. Leland, Secretary of the American Council of Learned Societies. At this meeting Dr. Leland assured the Committee of his interest in publications in the field of the humanities and suggested that the Academy might perform useful service by the publication of original documents. The Council, he said, would be glad to consider applications for the financial support of such publications. Encouraged by such an attitude, Professor Kirssopp Lake has already requested the Committee to accept for publication a collection of Greek manuscripts.

Respectfully submitted,

H. V. NEAL, Chairman.

IRA NELSON HOLLIS (1856-1930).

Fellow in Class I, Section 4, 1897.

Ira Nelson Hollis was born at Mooresville, Floyd County, Indiana, on March 7, 1856, the son of Ephriam Joseph Hollis (1825-1910) and Mary Kearns Hollis. His father became Captain in the 59th Indiana Regiment, serving at Vicksburg, Corinth, Shiloh, Chickamauga, Atlanta, and on the march to the sea, returning in command of the regiment, and later became owner and operator of a quarry at Louisville, Kentucky. His mother was the daughter of a farmer in Steubenville, Ohio.

Hollis' youth was spent at Louisville under straitened circumstances. He attended the local High School and then went as an apprentice in a machine shop. He later secured a clerical position with a railroad, and then with a cotton commission house in Memphis. At the age of eighteen he took the examination for admission to the Naval Academy at Annapolis and came out at the head of the list, a position which he retained throughout the course. After graduating as Cadet-Engineer in 1878 he spent three years on the Cruiser Quinnebaug in the Mediterranean and North Sea, and on the coast of Africa. He had been made Assistant Engineer in 1880, and on the conclusion of the cruise he was detailed as Professor of Marine Engineering at Union College, Schenectady. In 1884 he served with the Advisory Board for the construction of the ships of the White Squadron. Going to the Pacific coast, he spent three years at the Union Iron Works, supervising the construction of the Charleston. He then served three years on board that vessel in charge of her machinery, with the rank of Passed Assistant Engineer, mainly on the China Station, but, later taking part in the chase of the Itata.

In 1892 Hollis was designated to lecture on naval engineering at the Naval War College at Newport; his lectures being subsequently published as a text book for the Navy. He then became Assistant to the Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering. From this position he was called in 1893 to take charge of the development of instruction in engineering at Harvard University.

During his twenty years as Professor of Mechanical Engineering at Harvard University Hollis built up a reputation as educator and administrator. His breadth of experience, energy and sanity of judgement were also brought into play in numerous nonacademic activities. As Chairman of the Athletic Committee he converted the marsh land (now known as Soldiers Field) into a well equipped playing field and constructed on it the colossal Stadium, the first structure of its character in America. His courage in building that structure of reinforced concrete in the face of the grave doubts then existing as to its durability in the New England climate was characteristic of the man. He was active also in improving intercollegiate athletic relations, in establishing the Harvard Union (a students' club), in founding the Engineers' Club of Boston, of which he was the first president, and in numerous other enterprises demanding organizing power and leadership. His election later to the Board of Overseers of Harvard University—a unique honor for a non-graduate of Harvard College—gave evidence of the confidence and respect with which he was regarded by the great body of Harvard alumni. In 1913 Hollis became President of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, a position which gave wide scope to his administrative powers. He soon became a leading citizen of the community and during the war was on the Committee of Public Safety and in the New England Fuel Administration. In this period also he was elected President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and in that position did valuable work for national preparedness. He resigned in 1925 on account of ill health, returned to Cambridge, Massachusetts, and devoted himself to writing until his death on August 14, 1930.

Hollis was the recipient of honorary degrees of A.M. (Harvard), L.H.D. (Union), Sc.D. (University of Pittsburgh), and Eng.D. (Worcester Polytechnic Institute). He was a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Society of U. S. Naval Engineers, the American Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, and the Boston Society of Civil Engineers.

His publications include "The Frigate Constitution," and various scientific papers. He drafted the Personnel Act of 1898, reorganizing the line and staff of the Navy and establishing the present system.

The large influence of Hollis in all his associations was the result not only of his energy, character and good judgement but also of his geniality and capacity for comradeship and sympathetic helpfulness. He is survived by four children, Janette Ralton, Oliver Nelson, Eleanor Vernon and Carolyn. His wife, Caroline Lorman Hollis, the daughter of Charles Lorman of Detroit, died in 1925.

LIONEL S. MARKS.

CLARENCE LEMUEL ELISHA MOORE¹ (1876-1931).

Fellow in Class I, Section 1, 1914.

Clarence Lemuel Elisha Moore, the son of George Taylor and Lydia Ann (Bradshaw) Moore, was born in Bainbridge, Ohio, on May 12, 1876. His father was a grain dealer and was descended from the early settlers. After some years of school teaching, he entered the Ohio State University, from which he was graduated in 1901. His college course was followed by graduate study in mathematics at Cornell University which granted him a master's degree in 1902, and the doctorate in 1904. From this time until his death, on December 5, 1931, he was connected with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he was an instructor for five years, assistant professor for seven years, associate professor for four years and professor for eleven years. Shortly after coming to the Institute, he spent a year in study abroad, principally in Turin under Segre, and the influence of the Italian geometers profoundly affected his later mathematical career. He married Belle Pease Fuller of Springfield, Massachusetts, on June 11, 1913. She and their daughter, Hazel Ann, survive him.

Professor Moore was a member of the American Mathematical Society and of the Circolo Mathematico di Palermo, and a charter member of the Mathematical Association of America. He was a Fellow of this Academy and at the time of his death one of its Councilors. Many of his early papers were published in the Proceedings of this Academy. All of his later ones were published in the Journal of Mathematics and Physics which was founded at the Massachusetts

Institute of Technology in 1921, largely through his efforts, and of which he was an editor for ten years.

Professor Moore distinguished himself in all three of the fields of activity of an American educator: teaching, administration and research. But perhaps his most important service to the community in which he labored was in the rôle of friend and, in the case of his younger colleagues and students, father confessor and adviser. For his juniors, "to talk it over with Moore" was the natural treatment of any difficulty whether it concerned practical life, academic matters or abstract mathematics.

In recent years he conducted classes in mathematics as applied to aeronautical engineering. For eleven years he was in charge of the course in general science and engineering which included an undergraduate option in mathematics. This course, unlike most of those at Technology, left considerable freedom to the student in his choice of subjects, and Professor Moore gave countless hours to counselling undergraduates. He opposed, with equal firmness, diffuse superficiality and narrow specialization. His advice was nearly always followed by the students, not under compulsion but through the effectiveness of kindly argument. While Professor Moore realized the value of discipline and the importance of enforcing rules in general, no one was quicker than he to cut red tape in the interest of justice or common sense.

In creative mathematical work, C. L. E. Moore had a vigorous interest, unusual in mathematicians past their first youth. This accounts for the amount and importance of his contributions, in spite of the physical handicap of impaired vision, which made prolonged periods of reading an impossibility. His papers¹ for the most part deal with geometry. He began with problems concerning algebraic geometry in Euclidean space of three and higher dimensions, and later went on to the differential geometry of Riemannian manifolds. He also (partly in collaboration with H. B. Phillips) did some work on the applications of vector analysis to geometry. His work, taken as a whole, possesses unusual unity, and gives evidence of a real feeling for vital problems and a keen geometric insight into them. In mathematics, as in other aspects of life, C. L. E. Moore was little influenced by current fashions. This independence led him, for example (partly in collaboration with E. B. Wilson) to apply the methods of Ricci to the geometry of hyperspace several years before the body of American geometers became interested in the absolute calculus through its application to relativity by Einstein.

Besides the original contributions made directly by himself, or in collaboration with his colleagues, Professor Moore had a very stimulating influence on the general activity of the mathematical department at Technology. He continually encouraged his colleagues to do creative work, even in the face of difficulties, and to publish their results. When most of the mathematical journals in this country were inactive owing to a printers' strike, it was he who urged the foundation of the Journal of Mathematics and Physics to give the work of the staff an outlet. In questions of mathematical appointments, he was inclined to favor the candidate whom it might be "impossible to keep" rather than the one whom it might prove "impossible to lose." On all questions of departmental policy he always had a decided opinion, and even those who disagreed with him found their ideas clarified by his comments. In a controversy he stood by his guns without being unreasonably stubborn and however emphatic his point of view might be, he avoided all note of personal hostility.

C. L. E. Moore leaves, at his untimely death, many scientific and academic mementos and in the minds of his associates so vivid a memory of his vigorous, friendly personality that it is hard for them to realize that he is no longer with them.

citizens of foreign countries most eminent for their discoveries and attainments in any of the Classes above enumerated. There shall not be more than Thirty-five in any one Class.

ARTICLE 4. If any person, after being notified of his election as Fellow, shall neglect for six months to accept in writing, or, if a Fellow resident within fifty miles of Boston shall neglect to pay his Admission Fee, his election shall be void; and if any Fellow resident within fifty miles of Boston shall neglect to pay his Annual Dues for six months after they are due, provided his attention shall have been called to this Article of the Statutes in the meantime, he shall cease to be a Fellow; but the Council may suspend the provisions of this Article for a reasonable time.

With the previous consent of the Council, the Treasurer may dispense (sub silentio) with the payment of the Admission Fee or of the Annual Dues or both whenever he shall deem it advisable. In the case of officers of the Army or Navy who are out of the Commonwealth on duty, payment of the Annual Dues may be waived during such absence if continued during the whole financial year and if notification of such expected absence be sent to the Treasurer. Upon similar notification to the Treasurer, similar exemption may be accorded to Fellows subject to Annual Dues, who may temporarily remove their residence for at least two years to a place more than fifty miles from Boston.

If any person elected a Foreign Honorary Member shall neglect for six months after being notified of his election to accept in writing, his election shall be void.

All Commutations of the Annual Dues shall be and remain permanently founded, the interest only to be used for current expenses.

Any fellow not previously subject to Annual Dues who takes up his residence within fifty miles of Boston, shall pay to the Treasurer within three months thereafter Annual Dues for the current year, failing which his Fellowship shall cease; but the Council may suspend the provisions of this Article for a reasonable time.

Only Fellows who pay Annual Dues or have commuted them may hold office in the Academy or serve on the Standing Committees or vote at meetings.

ARTICLE 6. Fellows who pay or have commuted the Annual Dues and Foreign Honorary Members shall be entitled to receive gratis one copy of all Publications of the Academy issued after their election.

(viii) The Auditing Committee, to consist of two Fellows, who shall audit the accounts of the Treasurer, with power to employ an expert and to approve his bill.

See Chap. iv, art. 3; chap. vii, art. 1; chap. x, art. 6.

ARTICLE 3. The Standing Committees shall report annually to the Council in March on the appropriations severally needed for the ensuing financial year; and all bills incurred on account of these Committees, within the limits of the several appropriations made by the Academy, shall be approved by their respective Chairmen.

In the absence of the Chairman of any Committee, bills may be approved by any member of the Committee whom he shall designate for the purpose.

See Chap. vii, art. 1, 7; chap. x, art. 6.

CHAPTER XII.

MEETINGS, COMMUNICATIONS, AND AMENDMENTS.

ARTICLE 1. There shall be annually eight Stated Meetings of the Academy, namely, on the second Wednesday of October, November, December, January, February, March, April, and May. Only at these meetings, or at adjournments thereof regularly notified, or at Special Meetings called for the purpose, shall appropriations of money be made or amendments of the Statutes or Standing Votes be effected.

The Stated Meeting in May shall be the Annual Meeting of the Corporation.

Special Meetings shall be called by either of the Secretaries at the request of the President, of a Vice-President, of the Council, or of ten Fellows having the right to vote; and notifications thereof shall state the purpose for which the meeting is called.

A meeting for receiving and discussing literary or scientific communications may be held on the fourth Wednesday of each month, excepting July, August, and September; but no business shall be transacted at said meetings.

ARTICLE 2. Twenty-five Fellows having the right to vote shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at Stated or Special Meetings. Eighteen Fellows shall be sufficient to constitute a meeting for literary or scientific communications and discussions.

ARTICLE 3. Upon the request of the presiding officer or the Recording Secretary, any motion or resolution offered at any meeting shall be submitted in writing.

ARTICLE 4. No report of any paper presented at a meeting of the Academy shall be published by any Fellow without the consent of the author; and no report shall in any case be published by any Fellow in a newspaper as an account of the proceedings of the Academy without the previous consent and approval of the Council. The Council, in its discretion, by a duly recorded vote, may delegate its authority in this regard to one or more of its members.

ARTICLE 5. No Fellow shall introduce a guest at any meeting of the Academy until after the business has been transacted, and especially until after the result of the balloting upon nominations has been declared.

ARTICLE 6. The Academy shall not express its judgment on literary or scientific memoirs or performances submitted to it, or included in its Publications.

ARTICLE 7. All proposed Amendments of the Statutes shall be referred to a committee, and on its report, at a subsequent Stated Meeting or at a Special Meeting called for the purpose, two-thirds of the ballot cast, and not less than twenty-five, must be affirmative to effect enactment.

ARTICLE 8. Standing Votes may be passed, amended, or rescinded at a Stated Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for the purpose, by a vote of two-thirds of the members present. They may be suspended by a unanimous vote.

See Chap. ii, art. 5, 8; chap. iii; chap. iv, art. 3, 4, 5; chap. v, art. 1; chap. vi, art. 1, 2; chap. x, art. 8.

STANDING VOTES.

1. Communications of which notice has been given to either of the Secretaries shall take precedence of those not so notified.

2. Fellows may take from the Library six volumes at any one time, and may retain them for three months, and no longer. Upon special application, and for adequate reasons assigned, the Librarian may permit a larger number of volumes, not exceeding twelve, to be drawn from the Library for a limited period.

3. Works published in numbers, when unbound, shall not be taken from the Hall of the Academy without the leave of the Librarian.

4. The Council, under such rules respecting nominations as it may prescribe, may elect as Associates of the Academy a limited number of men of mark in affairs or of distinguished service in the community.

Associates shall be entitled to the same privileges as Fellows, but shall not have the right to vote.

The admission fee and annual dues of Associates shall be the same as those of Fellows residing within fifty miles of Boston.

5. Communications offered for publication in the Proceedings or Memoirs of the Academy shall not be accepted for publication before the author shall have informed the Committee on Meetings of his readiness, either himself or through some agent, to use such time as the Committee may assign him at such meeting as may be convenient both to him and to the Committee, for the purpose of presenting to the Academy a general statement of the nature and significance of the results contained in his communication.

RUMFORD PREMIUM.

In conformity with the terms of the gift of Sir Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, of a certain Fund to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and with a decree of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts for carrying into effect the general charitable intent and purpose of Count Rumford, as expressed in his letter of gift, the Academy is empowered to make from the income of the Rumford Fund, as it now exists, at any Annual Meeting, an award of a gold and a silver medal, being together of the intrinsic value of three hundred dollars, as a Premium to the author of any important discovery or useful improvement in light or heat, which shall have been made and published by printing, or in any way made known to the public, in any part of the continent of America, or any of the American islands; preference always being given to such discoveries as, in the opinion of the Academy, shall tend most to promote the good of mankind; and, if the Academy sees fit, to add to such medals, as a further Premium for such discovery and improvement, a sum of money not exceeding three hundred dollars.
